Workshop for intermediary companies

How can we all gain from closer collaboration?
We are a range of companies that provide, or wish to provide, services to industry by using x-ray and neutron instruments at large-scale facilities.

At this workshop we will discuss our mutual interests and the scope of a new network. We will identify how we can join efforts to impact stakeholders and address the challenges we meet when working as intermediaries between the facilities and industry, e.g. related to beamtime access, contract templates, communication material, data collection protocols etc.

The work form will be highly involving, focusing on brainstorming and co-creation of the aim, organization, and constitution of the network.
